How to Use this Guide

The first part of this guide is a great reference for those planning on or visiting the Berkshires and the second part is a useful reference tool for those living or looking to relocate to the Berkshires. Each section is color coded to help.

The Berkshires is comprised of 32 towns and if you were to traverse it from tail to tip it would take you about an hour and a ½. In order to make navigating the Berkshire region simpler we have created the map to your left. This map divides our region into 3 parts: North, Central and South and also lists the towns within each of these divisions. To further help you in your Berkshire travels this Guide references North, Central and South in all of its listings allowing you to have a better understanding of exactly where each business lies within the County. So please remember to consistently reference the map on page 4 and to make it even easier, at the opening of each of the Guide sections you will again see this locator map along with a reference key.

The Berkshires are the perfect getaway spot any time of year! Whether you want outdoor adventure, arts and culture, history and museums, or great shopping followed by an amazing meal, it's all happening right here.

Outdoor enthusiasts find plenty of four-season fun on Berkshire lakes, rivers, and mountain trails. There are several access points to the Appalachian Trail and, among its many special natural attractions, Berkshire County boasts the tallest waterfall and the highest summit in Massachusetts.

Cultural and arts-minded travelers find much here as well. Long known for its summer music, art, dance, and theater festivals, the Berkshires has a thriving arts scene year-round with performances and exhibitions featuring world-renowned and local artists at venues large and small. There are also world-class museums, interesting historic sites, and exciting event spaces to discover.

No visit to the Berkshires is complete without exploring the main streets and back roads for unique shops and antiques, galleries and coffeehouses, indie bookstores and film screenings, and the local and farm-fresh flavors found in our restaurants, bakeries, and cafés. Visit tasteberkshires.com to learn more about the artisanal food culture here and what makes this region such a popular destination for food lovers.

At day's end, catch a restorative night's sleep at any of our luxurious resorts, cozy inns, and quiet B&Bs. Spas and wellness retreats revitalize the spirit. Hotels, motels, and campgrounds provide family-friendly comforts. Whether you're traveling solo, on business, as a group, or with family or a partner, you'll find comfortable lodging with everything you need to awaken refreshed and ready for a new day of fun, discovery, and entertainment #InTheBerkshires!

Come get away with us! Plan your Berkshire getaway at berkshires.org

Stay connected on:

The Berkshires are an exciting year-round destination for all ages, offering the perfect mix of arts and culture, outdoor adventure, great food, and distinctive shops. Here's a partial list of places you won't want to miss!

Tanglewood, summer home of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, opens its new $30 million Center for Music and Learning in 2019, a four-building performance, dining, and rehearsal complex for year-round use by the BSO and the Berkshire community. The Tanglewood Learning Institute will also launch this season, offering educational initiatives to the public. Guests of The Red Lion in nearby downtown Stockbridge will enjoy the hotel's complimentary shuttle service to Tanglewood concerts.

WHAT'S NEW FOR 2019

Three miles away in Lenox, luxury wellness resort Miraval Berkshires opens in November following an expansion and renovation of the Cranwell Spa & Golf Resort property, joining the Hyatt-Miraval family of resorts. Look for other exciting new hotel, dining, and event space options at The Porches in North Adams, the Proprietor's Lodge on Pontoosuc Lake in Lanesborough, and The Williams Inn in Williamstown. TOURISTS Welcome in North Adams adds a new restaurant The Airport Rooms this year, located in the 1813 farmhouse next door to its Mohawk Trail hotel and event space.

Looking for adventure? Do you want to explore the arts, history, and outdoor fun in the area? The Berkshire Botanical Garden in Stockbridge was recently gifted 21 giant and life-sized animal-shaped topiaries, considered one of the finest collections of its kind in North America. The Bidwell House Museum in Monterey brings back its Native American Tours for the summer months. Catamount Aerial Adventure Park and Catamount Ski Area have renovated the main lodge and opened a new one mid-mountain, and a 5,600-foot-long Zip Rider, triple chairlift, and snow guns have been added. Feeling creative? The new Rapoza Center for the Arts in Adams offers arts education classes for all ages in the visual and performing arts.

For snacks and good food in a unique and fun atmosphere, visit the Wigwam Western Summit gift shop on the Mohawk Trail in North Adams for their signature pour-over coffee and a scenic view of the Berkshires from the wraparound porch. Set at an elevation of 2,100 feet, not far from the Trail's famous hairpin turn, the historic property originally opened in the 1930s also offers new cabins for overnight stays. For another taste of the Berkshires in North Adams, enjoy a menu of smoked meats and fresh-baked breads made on the premises at A-OK Berkshire Barbeque. Located on the campus of the Massachusetts Museum of Contemporary Art (MASS MoCA) and across from the new Bright Ideas Brewing company, A-OK offers further evidence of the talented makers and artisans who make the Berkshires a flavorful destination for food lovers.

No matter what part of the Berkshires you visit, there's always something new to discover.

MAHAIW

Mahaiwe Performing Arts Center,
Great Barrington, MA

Beryl Jolly

Executive Director
The Mahaiwe Performing Arts Center
Great Barrington

On a quiet side street in Great Barrington's bustling downtown, the Mahaiwe (pronounced Ma-hay-wee) theater and its magnificent marquee take center stage in the town's newly-designated Cultural District.

Originally opened in 1905 as a vaudeville house, the theater has also, in its history, served as a movie house. In 2005, it reopened its doors as the Mahaiwe Performing Arts Center, a nonprofit founded by Lola Jaffe, who had a vision for a cultural center that would bring the community together. The Mahaiwe completed an extensive renovation plan 2006. Since then, the venue has become one of the region's premier year-round destinations for music, dance, theater and film.

Executive Director Beryl Jolly has been involved with the Mahaiwe since the first night of its reopening. She says her move to the Berkshires from New York City—where she had been working on and off Broadway, for the New York Shakespeare Festival, and for the BAM Academy of Music—was specifically by choice. "I loved New York City," Jolly says, "but I didn't want to raise my family there. I majored in theater at Brandeis and interned at the Williamstown Theater Festival. I so loved my time here and had spent a few years looking for ways to live and work here when the job opened up at the Mahaiwe."

"We have so many world-class experiences of the caliber found in any big city, with a small-town scale," Jolly continues. "It's a tremendously-rich and rewarding and beautiful place to live and to work, with a very interesting and supportive community for families and creative, artsy people. There are so many resources for children and education and fascinating individuals from all kinds of backgrounds. I love it. There's no other place like it!"

INSIDER TIPS, MUST VISITS AND MORE

We asked the locals and they have spoken. Now you can take advantage of what they had to say and discover their favorite Berkshire spots for yourself.

Taking the kids and dogs hiking on the trails behind Hancock Shaker Village. Sometimes we pack a lunch and eat it while enjoying the view of the pond. Great for fall foliage viewing.

Stopping in for a beer flight and a pizza by Hot Tomatoes Pizza at Bright Ideas Brewery in North Adams.

All things apple, wandering The Apple Squeeze in Lenox and caramel apple season at Guido's. The apples are made fresh, tasty for you or as a last-minute gift.

Loading up the car after a snow dump and heading to one of our local ski areas to enjoy a rare New England powder day. #skimass

Pulling out the picnic gear, heading to a local farmers' market to shop for goodies and then packing up and enjoying a picnic at Tanglewood, nothing says summer like that. Don't forget the candles and vino.

Indulging in some retail therapy at museum gift shops through the region. They are some of the best, you can just traverse the county shopping at them all day and feel satisfied with your amazing and unique purchases.

Pick your own! In the summer there are all sorts of succulent berries but best of all are the apples and foliage in fall. Be sure to enjoy hot apple cider donut and a wine tasting or a Johnny Mash Cider at Hilltop Orchards & Furnace Brook Winery.

Enjoying a great show almost any night of the week, especially in the warmer months. What adds to this is the fun of discovering all the spots where you can be entertained for free such as at Jacob's Pillow's Inside/Out stage, The Mount's back patio and lawn for jazz concerts, and The Clark's free concert series.

Ty Allan Jackson

Big Head Books, Pittsfield

Berkshire Athenaeum, Pittsfield, MA

Ty Allan Jackson moved to the Berkshires from the Bronx as a young father of three. “I wanted a more ideal environment to raise a family,” says Jackson. “There’s a sense of community here and a lot of opportunities for young children, which aren’t as prominent in New York City.”

As it turned out, the Berkshires offered plenty of opportunity for him, too. “Berkshire County is the catalyst of my success,” Jackson says. As the founder of Big Head Books, he has discovered that the Berkshires are a great place to start a small business. “There’s open-mindedness and a willingness to listen and be receptive to business and support someone with a new idea. That doesn’t happen everywhere, but it can happen here.”

Jackson’s business idea was launched when he wrote a book called Danny Dollar Millionaire Extraordinaire: The Lemonade Escapade, an inspiring story for school-age children based on the experience of his son, who was seven years old at the time, opening a lemonade stand one afternoon, earning $50 in three hours, then asking him what to do with the money. Jackson says that when a trip to the bookstore with his son that day came up empty for books to teach him about financial literacy—especially books where a child of color is the main character—he decided to write one of his own.

Jackson says once his idea came to fruition, the community embraced it. He found support through financial institutions, the Boys and Girls Club, and the United Way. “It made me believe I could be successful,” he says.

Since then, Jackson has written four books, published through his company, and has garnered local and national attention as an advocate for social justice, literacy, and entrepreneurship. “I will forever be indebted,” he says, “giving of myself allowed Berkshire County to give itself to me.”

Shela Hidalgo

Director of Development
Berkshire Community College, Pittsfield

For Shela Hidalgo, 28, of Pittsfield, a cross-country move to the Berkshires three years ago from her home state of Arizona has led to professional experiences she says she would not have found elsewhere at this point in her career. “I can’t imagine living anywhere else that I would get to have these opportunities at such a young age,” she says.

Honored in 2018 as an outstanding young professional in the Berkshires by the 40 Under Forty program, Hidalgo has a passion for connecting people and communities to shared goals. Her current role as Director of Development at Berkshire Community College (BCC) also brings her full circle to her own experience as a community college student, where, she says, doors opened that moved her life forward after growing up in the foster care system, where the chance to earn a college degree is often elusive. “I saw that I needed it and took responsibility for making it happen,” she says. “It was an amazing step for me.” As a top student in her class, Hidalgo earned an, All-Arizona Academic Team Scholarship and went on to finish her Bachelor of Science degree at Arizona State.

In addition to working full-time at BCC and serving on several local boards, Hidalgo is pursuing a Master’s degree in Public Administration at Northeastern with an emphasis on social change. She’s also thoroughly enjoying life in the Berkshires with new colleagues, new friends and new experiences.

“This is such a welcoming community,” she says, “It’s so wonderful to be finding a voice and a path here.”

is calling

the berkshires
Western Massachusetts

The scenic routes traversing the Berkshires of Western Massachusetts roll through open farmlands and bustling main streets, as well as winding through picturesque villages and towns. White clapboard homes and porched inns offer an aura of New England charm. Unique businesses and attractions showcase the area's arts and agricultural foundation, with an added sense of urban sophistication. As you explore the region, you may find yourself wondering: What's it like to live here?

The Berkshires offer a distinctive way of life. The appeal of quiet country living is real, but what turns visitors into residents is more than that; there is a strong sense of belonging, and abundant opportunities for all ages.

In fact, the Berkshires' location—just a two-hour or so drive from New York City and Boston—attracts young professionals just beginning their careers as well as entrepreneurs and small business owners looking for a place to start out or expand. Second-homeowners and retirees find a relaxed pace and the world-class arts, cultural, and culinary offerings found in major cities, with a much lower cost of living. This area has also long been known as a lure for writers, artists, musicians, and actors. As Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival Director Pam Tatge says of the concentration of creative energy in the Berkshires, "There's no other place like it."

Along with its beautiful setting and plethora of fun things to do, the Berkshires boasts a strong infrastructure. An award-winning healthcare system serves the region, with providers and hospitals rated among the top in the nation for quality of care. In addition to excellent public school systems throughout the county, the Berkshires are also home to some of the most prestigious colleges and private prep schools in the country. Proximity to major international airports connects Berkshire-based businesses to key sources of supply and distribution, and the Berkshire Flyer rail project, now in development, will establish regular Amtrak rail service to and from New York City.

If you're considering a move to the Berkshires, 1Berkshire is here to support you. With our primary focus on economic development and promotion of the region, we'll help you find the relocation information and resources you need, and introduce you to the people who live here, work here and thrive here. In 2018, we launched 'the jobs thing,' an online portal that serves to attract professionals who seek full-time permanent positions with a salary of $40,000 or more. We also offer a variety of programs and services designed to help you grow once you're here.

Life is calling in the Berkshires. Join us—where the mountain air inspires, and living your dreams is possible!

Last summer, Tom Bernard bought himself a new bike. Bernard is a casual weekend rider, who enjoys pedaling around the City of North Adams as well as down the Ashuwillticook Rail Trail. "Biking is a relaxing way to enjoy the beautiful scenery of the Berkshires," he says, "and it's another way to bring a group of people together who might not otherwise meet."

Tom Bernard

Mayor of North Adams

Bernard, 48, knows a thing or two about connecting people with shared interests. He's mayor of North Adams, which he notes with pride is the smallest city in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts – although he is quick to note that the city's local, regional, statewide, and national standing belie its modest population. The 13,000 North Adams residents who live along the Hoosac River in the northwest corner of Massachusetts take pride in the city's history of industry and innovation, as well as in the way that history informs the city's current identity as a center for tourism and the creative economy, while not overlooking the continued importance of manufacturing as an economic driver.

Raised in North Adams, Bernard graduated from Williams College and earned a Master of Public Administration from Westfield State. Before being elected mayor in 2017—his first time in public office—he was director of special projects at Smith College, and previously he worked at MASS MoCA and MCLA both in North Adams. He's also held various roles in organizations in and around North Adams.

"Like so many places in the Berkshires," Bernard says, "North Adams continues to revitalize and reinvent itself." He sees a bright future for the city. "People who come from larger metro areas for a visit see what the people who have lived here their entire lives have always known: North Adams is welcoming place with abundant culture, recreation, and natural beauty where anyone can live, work, and build a career."

With the city's downtown development and infrastructure as ongoing areas of focus, Bernard says he's also excited about the growing recognition of outdoor recreation as a competitive advantage for the city. This includes the long-planned bike and pedestrian path that will link North Adams to Williamstown and eventually beyond—providing even more opportunities for this city on the move to connect residents with each other and the region.

LET 1BERKSHIRE BE YOUR ENTRY POINT INTO The Berkshires

We know you love the Berkshires. Have you ever thought of living and working here?

As a visitor, you might not realize what goes on behind the scenes in the Berkshires to support our year-round economy. The Berkshires is made up of 30 towns and two cities stretching to the borders of Vermont, Connecticut, and New York. At 130,000 total residents, we make up less than two percent of the entire population of Massachusetts. Don't let our size fool you, however, we have a lot going on, and at 1Berkshire, it is our job to promote and support the region.

1Berkshire was formed by uniting the Berkshire Chamber of Commerce, Berkshire Visitors Bureau, Berkshire Economic Development Corporation, and Berkshire Creative to serve as a single voice for the business community regarding funding and advocacy, and as the regional economic development and visitor promotion organization. 1Berkshire's promotion of opportunities in the region has helped convince vacationers and visitors to start calling the Berkshires home, part-time and full-time, due mostly to the quality of life, great schools, serene lifestyle, and proximity to hubs like New York City and Boston.

The Berkshires is experiencing a huge surge in economic growth. In the past three years, $1 billion of private investment has been made in the region, leading to new job growth and expansion within many sectors in our economy. 1Berkshire is proud to have been a part of that success and offers programs to help further regional economic development. As a membership-based organization, we support local business partners with networking opportunities, events, educational programs, advocacy, referrals, business visibility, search engine ranking, marketing, promotion, and bottom line growth.

We also support professionals who are interested in moving to the Berkshires with a targeted jobs board called the jobs thing; found at 1berkshire.com/jobs. The jobs thing lists only full-time professional positions paying $40,000 and higher, located in The Berkshires. In addition, we support entrepreneurs and business owners who would like to move to or start a business in the Berkshires through our Economic Development office. To do this we offer business start-up support, mentoring, site selection assistance, and other business relocation support such as stakeholder convenings, grant application advocacy, and one-on-one advisement.

One of the most exciting projects 1Berkshire has been working on is the Berkshire Blueprint 2.0. The Blueprint is the product of two years' worth of research, analysis, and visioning, and presents an overview of several specific economic clusters, the entrepreneurial support, and talent development systems, and cross-cutting challenges facing the Berkshire economy. It also offers action steps to continue strengthening these segments of the economy and serves as the foundation of ongoing efforts to strategically align organizations, individuals, and initiatives for continued economic growth over the next decade. You can learn more at 1berkshire.com/blueprint.

From small entrepreneurs and nonprofit organizations to large corporations, business leaders, and professionals, 1Berkshire is the regional network. To learn more, visit 1berkshire.com today!

Tim & Brian Cherubini

Telecommuters, Williamstown, MA

Jiminy Peak Mountain Resort, Hancock, MA

Tim and Brian Cherubini were living in Atlanta when they decided they were ready for a change. They had a few criteria in mind for their new home, including a place that had four seasons and winter sports. Denver was one option they considered, but it didn't have everything they wanted. Both are from small towns and wanted that feel, so they started looking at New England.

When Tim's work in higher education brought him to Williams College in Williamstown, he loved the area immediately and recalls telling Brian, "You have to come to this place!" They moved to Williamstown in 2007.

Tim, 56, needs to travel for work and enjoys having Albany and Hartford airports nearby as well as Amtrak train service for his frequent trips to DC. "Williamstown is a small town with big-city amenities," he says. "And we're also close to New York City, Boston, and Montreal if we want to go to the city."

Brian, 50, had been working in IT in the healthcare industry and could telecommute from Williamstown. In 2018, he started a BSN in Nursing program at Southern Vermont College. "It's a great place to relocate if you're thinking of starting over in your 50s," he says.

In addition to the area and lifestyle being just what they were looking for, the pair say it's been easy to make friends here and become actively engaged in the community. "There is a richness here, in nature, culture, and the people," says Tim, adding it's also more diverse here than what they found in Atlanta. "Whether local or transplants," Tim says, "everyone has an interesting story."
